Single Release: Who Would Santa Pray To?

Heartfelt vocals, amazing arrangement and provocative lyrics that has an awesome message regarding the lost message of Christmas through commercialism. Randall Gartman's new release, "Who Would Santa Pray To?", gives the honor back to the person that Christmas is truly about and wittingly helps the listener remember what is the more important than all the presents and commerce.

Listen carefully to the beautiful accompaniment from CHAPTER 11, a band that by itself has been recognized by TMR for some of their great songs that hit the charts in Texas, and you will hear a mix of modern country and soulful traditional Christmas styles subtly come together in "Who Would Santa Pray To?".

To put it another way, Randall's "Who Would Santa Pray To?" takes you to a time when the simpler things in life were better than another electronic device to post something on Facebook.

Originally from Deep East Texas and Louisiana, Randall Gartman's sound and writing style are always going to transcend his roots. As you listen to his Jesus Album, you can almost feel the mud between your toes as you're tapping your feet to Alligator Crawl or maybe you'll even get the feeling of little Bourbon Street as you listen to Cool Like You.

Each song has a simple sound with a catchy beat, but all the words are honest and from the heart. Every song captures a part of Randall's feelings at a particular time and place or reminisces through part of his childhood memories, but you will always know it's not another song that has been written to satisfy a trending algorithm.
